With the „Varied world of architecture“ package, you’ll delve into the world of architecture and practise making your own sgraffito.

Guided tour: Small details, big impact
The architecture of rural Switzerland is extremely diverse. At the Swiss Open-Air Museum, you can explore over 100 buildings from every region of Switzerland. Our guides put the regional buildings in their social, historical and economic context and describe the many small details that had a major impact on Alpine life.

Workshop: Sgraffito: a sustainable architectural style
In this workshop, you’ll be introduced to the traditional way of painting a sgraffito. These striking murals are made from a combination of chalk, sand and water. You can design your sgraffito using traditional styles for inspiration or your own ideas. You can then take your sgraffito home with you as a souvenir of a memorable day at the museum.

Food: Swiss cuisine and regional specialities
During your visit to the open-air museum, you’ll also be well catered for. Treat yourself to a bite to eat at one of our tasting sessions and sample some regional produce or home-made specialities from the area. At lunch you’ll be treated to a delicious menu in our restaurants.

Sgraffito
Sgraffito painting is a style of mural, originally from Italy. „Sgraffiti“ decorate many of the houses in Engadin and contribute to the charming village ambiance. Sgraffito art reached its height in the mid-17th century and is today experiencing a renaissance.
